Course Description

This class covers the convergence of media, communications technologies, art, design, and culture. It is intended to familiarize students with important approaches in new media, focusing on the history of the medium and the conceptual history of interactivity in art and communication.

“All media were once new media”, states cultural theorist Lisa Gitelman as she begins her book New Media 1740-1915. Historicizing media, whether “new” or otherwise is important if we are to understand what has led to the present cultural milieu in the west and elsewhere. By looking at past as well as current technologies we will draw a thread through what often appear to be disparate objects and tie them to one another within the flow of history.

New media do not inhabit one discipline in particular and so fall under the rubric of “multimedia”. As multimedia, this class will necessarily include studies from a series of diverse disciplines: art, science, philosophy, cultural theory, and history.

Many of the ideas surrounding media are both difficult and highly abstract and so art will play an important role in this class. Using the work of artists we will examine the theories presented in this class as they manifest themselves in concrete art objects.

Objectives

- Demonstrate an understanding of some major themes in media theory.
- Develop an understanding of the history of new media.
- Gain knowledge of new media art and artists.

Student Responsibilities

- Turn in work on time. Late work will not be accepted.
- Spend the appropriate amount of time and effort completing assignments. Time working outside of class is required!
- Participate in class.
- Be present! Attendance is mandatory. 3 absences = a failing grade.
- You are responsible for signing the role. This is how I know that you were present.

Course Requirements

- Students will write a response to each reading. I'm not looking for a grand thesis here, just considered responses to the reading. Every response should use the reading.
- There will be one final research paper with MLA documentation 9-10 pages. You will also be required to do a presentation based on your final research project. This should be a paper of professional quality, free from spelling and grammatical errors, well thought out and well structured.

Required Texts

- The New Media Reader edited by Noah Wardrip-Fruin and Nick Montfort.
The reader is available for purchase from Shakespeare and Co. There will also be a copy on reserve at the library. You may also attempt to find a used copy on the web. www.addall.com is a used book search engine I've found handy.

- Other readings will be available on the Internet or I will give out copies in advance.

Method of evaluation:

Your grade will be based on class participation, responses to reading, and a final paper and presentation. No late assignments will be accepted. Any papers that are found to be guilty of plagiarism will result in a failure in the course.

Plagiarize:

1. To use and pass off as one's own (the ideas or writings of another).
2. To appropriate for use as one's own passages or ideas from (another).

Source: The American Heritage College Dictionary. (1997). Boston: Houghton Mifflin Company.

Plagiarism:

is the act of presenting another person's literary, artistic, or musical work as one's own. For example, a student who copies from reference books has committed plagiarism. A work need not be identical to the original to be plagiarism. But it must be so similar that it has obviously been copied.

Grades will be based on the following percentages:

Participation and Attendance	30%
Final Research Paper and Presentation	25%
Responses to reading	45%

Final Papers Due July 22nd

The Final:

For the final paper you will write a close analysis of one technological artifact or event. The subject may be a website, the work of a new media artist, a particular new media technology, or some other object that falls within the purview of the class. The paper will not be evaluated on its breadth so the more narrow the focus the better. You should site at least five sources that were used in your research, two of which may be found in the reader and the remaining three elsewhere. The paper should be 9 pages in length. You will also be required to give a class presentation of your research around 6 minutes in length. We will further discuss the final paper and presentation later in the term.

This Syllabus subject to change.

 Statement on Originality of the Work

All work completed for this course must be completed by the student enrolled in the course. All work for this course must be made in this course and not fulfilling the requirements of another prior or current course unless pre-approved by the instructor. Plagiarism is a very serious academic offense which will result in penalties ranging from reduction of class grade to failure in the course. Plagiarism occurs when the ideas, images, and words, published or unpublished, of others are presented as one's own without citing the original source. Plagiarism also occurs when the papers, research, or creative works of another person are presented as one's own work.

* Absence policy

Attendance to all classes is required and attendance is taken at each class. A significant part of your final grade will be determined by class attendance. If you need to miss a class, contact the instructor prior to the date and make alternative arrangements. After the fact explanations do not work. More than three absences will result in an 'F' (failure) for the class. No exceptions. This is standard policy across digital media courses. Class begins on time, so you must be punctual. Two late arrivals equal one absence.
